DETAILED ACTION

1. Applicant's arguments filed 8/16/2004 with respect to claims 1-10 and 76-77 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Any new grounds of rejection are in response to the amendment of the claims and to further address the remarks of the response. The examiners response to the remarks and amendment to the claims has been incorporated into the rejection of the claims as provided below in bold font.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

Art Unit: 2645

3. Claims 1-10 and 76-77 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Ram et al. (#6,625,258)

The claims read on Ram as follows: Ram teaches enabling callers to access a system via IP telephony call (col.10,ln.48-col.11,ln.14) as pertains to claims 1 and 5, the system is an enhanced interactive voice response system and includes a call router to route an internet protocol telephony call to the VAS (an interactive voice response server) (see also figures 5A, 5B). The server includes a terminal object as per the instant disclosure (col.3,ln.52-63 and col.3,ln.3-20).

With respect to the remarks directed toward Ram and the claimed terminal object, the claims do not present any limitations to further define the terminal object as per the remarks which suggest to define the terminal object, the terminal object in the claim has no function in claims 1-4 and merely provides function so as to receive a call in claim 5. as per the remarks and in reference to RAM (col.3,ln.3-20, and ln. 52-63), the VAS provides functional services to the user and does so by software instructions. Call services are described as including routing and completing calls and thus meet the limitations of the terminal object as defined by the claims as well as providing the ‘end pointing’ as suggested via the remarks and the description in the instant disclosure

A gateway is coupled to the call router (col.5,ln.61-64) as pertains to claims 2 and 4. The gateway couples to the PSTN (114) as pertains to claim 3. The system includes a client computer which can receive incoming calls forwarded thereto from the VAS (col.11,ln.16-40) including IP telephony calls as per claims 5 and 9. Further with respect to claims 6-8, the system includes a data store (for storing incoming messages and profile information) (col.12,ln.31-col.13,ln.52) and thus the client computer is enabled to retrieve call information from the data store as per claim 10.

With respect to claims 76 and 77 , Ram teaches the terminal objects as defined in claims 1 and 6 respectively (which have no function in particular in the claims as written) are software objects in as far as that phrase is defined by the claims, Ram teaches the server includes software instructions for providing the particular communication service(s) or network function(s) (col.3,ln.48-60).

Conclusion

4. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

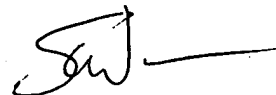

5. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).
